PLAINTIFF'S COMPLAINT AND DEMAND FOR TRIAL BY JURY

PARTIES

- 1. The plaintiff, Gina Crossetti, is a natural person who resides at 94 Holyoke Road, Westfield, Hampden County, Commonwealth of Massachusetts and is the duly appointed personal representative of the Estate of Robert A. Crossetti, Jr., deceased, who brings this action on behalf of said estate.
- 2. The defendant, Cargill, Incorporated ("Cargill") is a corporation duly organized under the laws of the State of Delaware with a principal place of business located at 15407 McGints Road, Wayzata, Minnesota and a registered agent within the Commonwealth of Massachusetts of CT Corporation System, 155 Federal Street, Suite 700, Boston, Suffolk County, Commonwealth of Massachusetts, who at all times material to the allegations set forth in this action was engaged in numerous businesses world wide including but not limited to grain and agricultural commodities; steel transport; raising of livestock and production of feed; the production of food ingredients; and the purchase, sale and distribution of road salt throughout the various United States including but not limited to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

GENERAL FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

3. On November 19, 2014 the now deceased Robert A. Crossetti, Jr. was working within the course and scope of his employment with Salt City, Inc. ("Salt City"), located at 163 Union Street, Westfield, Hampden County, Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

- 4. At the same place and time, Salt City was in the business of receiving road salt product from the defendant, Cargill, where said road salt product was then stockpiled to be further distributed and sold to the surrounding communities for winter road de-icing, application
- 5. At the same place and time, the defendant Cargill did own all of the real property, buildings, fixtures and machinery located at Salt City including but not limited to the subject salt conveyor system and "wall stacker" component of said conveyor system.
- On and before November 19, 2014 the defendant Cargill did exercise oversight, control, superintendence and supervision over the Salt City operation including conducting regular safety inspections of the premises including but not limited to the aforesaid salt conveyor system and "wall stacker" component.
- 7. On and before November 19, 2014, Cargill by virtue of a safety inspection knew or should have known that there were dangerous and unguarded in running nip points, dangerous and unguarded rotating shafts, nonexistent lock and/or tag out policies and other defects and conditions involving the subject salt conveyor system and "wall stacker" component which posed a foreseeable risk of serious bodily injury or death to persons including but not limited to the now deceased Robert A. Crossetti, Jr.
- 8. On and before November 19, 2014 the defendant Cargill failed to see to it that the aforesaid defects, dangers and hazards involving the subject salt conveyor system and compliance with all appropriate federal, state and local laws, rules and ordinances.
- 9. On November 19, 2014 the now deceased Robert A. Crossetti, Jr. was working at the aforesaid salt conveyor system and the "wall stacker" component attempting to clean a known and foreseeable accumulation of salt that had formed on roller when his right arm conscious pain and suffering and death.
- This matter was previously filed in Hampden County Superior Court (Civil Action No. 1779-CV-00700) on September 29, 2017 and thereafter removed by the Defendant, CV-30002).
- 11. The matter was subsequently dismissed by the U.S. District Court on June 08, 2018 without prejudice. This dismissal was appealed on a timely basis to the United States Court of Appeals for the First Circuit (Docket #: 18-1622).

12. This matter is being re-filed in Hampden County Superior Court pursuant to M.G.L. c. 260, §32, also known as the Massachusetts Savings or Renewal Statute. The Plaintiff has met all conditions precedent for relief under this statute.

COUNT I - NEGLIGENCE BODILY INJURY, CONSCIOUS PAIN AND SUFFERING (Estate of Robert A. Crossetti, Jr. v. Cargill, Incorporated)

- 13. The plaintiff realleges all of the previous paragraphs of this Complaint and incorporates them by reference into this Count.
- At the same place and time the defendant Cargill did negligently and carelessly own, 14. maintain, oversee, superintend, supervise and control the aforesaid Salt City premises, property, buildings, fixtures, and machinery including but not limited to the subject salt conveyor system and "wall stacker" component of said conveyor system; did negligently and carelessly fail to properly and adequately inspect the Salt City premises, property, buildings, fixtures and machinery including but not limited to the subject salt conveyor system and "wall stacker component"; did negligently and carelessly fail to investigate and review the Salt City operating and safety procedures relating to the operation and maintenance of the subject premises, property, buildings, fixtures and machinery including but not limited to the subject salt conveyor system and "wall stacker" component; did negligently and carelessly fail to follow up on the results of its own safety inspections and recommendations for the implementation of safety improvements, practices, and machine guarding regarding the aforesaid Salt City premises, property, buildings, fixtures, and machinery including but not limited to the subject salt conveyor system and "wall stacker" component of said conveyor system; and did therefore negligently and carelessly allow and permit unnecessary dangerous conditions to exist on its Salt City premises, property, buildings, fixtures, and machinery including but not limited to the subject salt conveyor system and "wall stacker" component of said conveyor thereby exposing users of the premises, property, buildings, fixtures and machinery including but not limited to the subject salt conveyor system and "wall stacker" component of salt conveyor to the foreseeable risk of serious bodily injury and harm, did negligently and carelessly fail to comply with all applicable federal, state and local laws and ordinances, and was otherwise negligent to be further shown by the
- 15. As a direct and proximate result of the defendant Cargill's negligence, the now deceased Robert A. Crossetti, Jr. was caused and permitted to become entangled and caught in an unguarded unreasonably dangerous in running nip point of the subject "wall stacker" component of the aforesaid salt conveyor system where he suffered serious crushing and traumatic bodily injury as he was pulled into the machine and suffered conscious pain of body and mind prior to his death.

WHEREFORE, the plaintiff demands judgment against the defendant, Cargill, Incorporated, for an amount reasonable according to the evidence as the Court deems appropriate, together with interest and costs.

COUNT II - WRONGFUL DEATH (Estate of Robert A. Crossetti, Jr. v. Cargill, Incorporated)

- 16. The plaintiff realleges all of the preceding paragraphs of this Complaint and incorporates them by reference into this Count.
- At the same place and time the defendant Cargill did negligently and carelessly own, 17. maintain, oversee, superintend, supervise and control the aforesaid Salt City premises, property, buildings, fixtures, and machinery including but not limited to the subject salt conveyor system and "wall stacker" component of said conveyor system; did negligently and carelessly fail to properly and adequately inspect the Salt City premises, property, buildings, fixtures and machinery including but not limited to the subject salt conveyor system and "wall stacker component"; did negligently and carelessly fail to investigate and review the Salt City operating and safety procedures relating to the operation and maintenance of the subject premises, property, buildings, fixtures and machinery including but not limited to the subject salt conveyor system and "wall stacker" component; did negligently and carelessly fail to follow up on the results of its own safety inspections and recommendations for the implementation of safety improvements, practices, and machine guarding regarding the aforesaid Salt City premises, property, buildings, fixtures, and machinery including but not limited to the subject salt conveyor system and "wall stacker" component of said conveyor system; and did therefore negligently and carelessly allow and permit unnecessary dangerous conditions to exist on its Salt City premises, property, buildings, fixtures, and machinery including but not limited to the subject salt conveyor system and "wall stacker" component of said conveyor thereby exposing users of the premises, property, buildings, fixtures and machinery including but not limited to the subject salt conveyor system and "wall stacker" component of salt conveyor to the foreseeable risk of serious bodily injury and harm, did negligently and carelessly fail to comply with all applicable federal, state and local laws and ordinances, and was otherwise negligent to be further shown by the
- As a direct and proximate result of the defendant Cargill's negligence, the now deceased Robert A. Crossetti, Jr. was caused and permitted to become entangled and caught in an unguarded unreasonably dangerous in running nip point of the subject "wall stacker" traumatic bodily injury as he was pulled into the machine and suffered conscious pain of body and mind prior to his death.

- 19. As a direct and proximate result of the wrongful death of Robert A. Crossetti, Jr., the plaintiff, Gina Crossetti as Personal Representative of the Estate of Robert A. Crossetti, Jr. seeks recovery of monetary damages pursuant to M.G.L.c.229,§2 including compensation for the reasonable funeral and burial expenses of the decedent, the fair monetary value of the decedent including but not limited to compensation for the loss of the reasonably expected net income, services, protection, care, assistance, society, companionship, comfort, guidance, counsel, and advice of the decedent to the persons entitled to recover such damages.
- 20. The plaintiff also seeks punitive damages as permitted by M.G.L.c.229, §2 as the defendant's conduct causing the death of Robert A. Crossetti, Jr. was wilful, wanton and reckless and/or grossly negligent.

WHEREFORE, the plaintiff demands judgment against the defendant, Cargill, Incorporated, for an amount reasonable according to the evidence as the Court deems appropriate, together with interest and costs.
